Notice Issued Aug. 23, 1918, Is Hereby Amended to Read as Follows:

An insect dangerous to the corn plant known as the European corn borer (Pyrausta nubilalis) has been found in some sections of the states of Massachusetts and New York and every precaution should be taken to prevent its introduction into the state of Vermont.

Therefore, I, Elbert S. Brigham, commissioner of agriculture of the state of Vermont, under authority conferred by section 431 of the general laws of Vermont, and with the approval of the board of control, do, by this notice, quarantine, order that no stalks or ears of the corn plant, (Zea Mays) either green or dried, shall be moved or allowed to be moved from the states of Massachusetts or New York into the state of Vermont until further notice, unless written permission is secured from the commissioner of agriculture of the state of Vermont and such permission shall accompany the shipment. This quarantine, however, shall not apply to ordinary commercial dried shelled corn used for feeding purposes or for seed, provided the same is free from cobs, or to any corn grown in other states passing through Massachusetts or New York in transit.

NEW TEACHERS SECURED.

Mr. and Mrs. Rollins H. Barrett for the State Agricultural School.

Rollin H. Barrett and wife have recently come from Hartford, Conn., to Randolph Center, where they are beginning work at the Vermont state agricultural school. Mr. Barrett will have charge of the sciences and the work in English mainly. His previous training and experience make him well qualified to strengthen these important courses. He is a graduate of the state college of agriculture, Storrs, Conn., having specialized in the sciences for two years. He has spent considerable time in a practical way in the botanical garden along the lines of plant breeding.

Mr. Barrett was born and reared on a farm, and has had special work in the management of dairy herds. He has also had considerable experience in county agent work and in agricultural journalism, in which capacity he has written many articles in the interests of the farmer's problems. This training and experience will make it possible to establish a close relationship between the instruction in sciences and the practical courses in agriculture. The work of the debating societies, "The Vermont Pioneer," school paper, and much of the oral and written work in the agricultural instruction will be closely related to the work in English.

Mr. Barrett is a graduate of the New London Business college, New London, Conn. She is to have charge of the stenographic work and the bookkeeping.

They will make their home in the dormitory, where they can give careful supervision to the dormitory life. Mr. Barrett is a native of Vermont and has relatives living in Brattleboro and Burlington. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in the army just previous to his discharge from the service last January.

UNCLE SAM IN ROLE OF PHYSICIAN.

Medical Care Is Provided for Disabled Soldiers, Sailors and Marines.

Washington, D. C., July 17.—Disabled men who are in training under the federal board for vocational education are carefully watched by medical men. A complete physical and functional survey to determine the fitness of an applicant to enter upon a course of training is required by the amendment to the rehabilitation act. Medical care will be provided by the federal board throughout the period of training, whenever necessary, and at the end of the training a careful survey of the man's physical condition will be made.

More than 130,000 men with disabilities have registered with the board. Of this number 84,879 have been interviewed and 15,872 have been recommended for training; 4,762 disabled men are now in training under the direction of the federal board for vocational education and 10,000 are in employment.

Embarrassing Hairs Can Be Quickly Removed

(Beauty Culture)

Hairs can be easily banished from the skin by this quick, painless method: Mix into a stiff paste some powdered deodorant and water, spread on hairy surface and in 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be free from hair or bluish. Excepting in very stubborn growths, one application is sufficient. To avoid disappointment, buy the deodorant in original package.—Adv.

DISAPPEARING FORESTS CAUSING WORRY

Plans for Perpetuation of Forests in New England and the Eastern Section of the Country to Be Discussed.

Washington, D. C., July 17.—"Plans for the perpetuation of the forests in New England and the east, and for the restoration of the denuded forest land should be thoroughly discussed by the Association of Eastern Foresters which met at Kineo, Me.," declares Charles Lathrop Pack, the president of the American Forestry association. He has issued a call to the eastern foresters to express their view of the need of a national forest policy.

"The people of this country must be told how our forests are disappearing," said Mr. Pack, "and must be aroused to the need of a policy which will result in our watersheds being protected for all time and for our forests to be managed so that they may provide for all our future lumber and forest product requirements."

"New England is no longer a factor in our lumber supplies, and its pulpwood supplies are being rapidly exhausted. The paper mills of the country already import 30 per cent of their raw material in the form of wood or pulp. Our hardwoods in the north and the east are being rapidly used up and many wood-using industries are already embarrassed for supplies."

"The eastern foresters are experts who should be able to offer a practical solution to the problem of how to conserve what forests we have remaining, how to restore what forests have been destroyed, how to protect our forests from fire and how to provide for perpetuation of our forests so that the lumber requirements of the nation may be assured for the future."

"The American Forestry association will heartily support the demand of the United States forest service for a national forest policy and will call upon the lumbermen, timberland owners and the foresters of the country to suggest plans for a policy which will be practical and which will assure the nation of ample forests for its future needs."
